Veden tuntu is a promenade performance that dives into the connection between the human body and the sea.

Veden tuntu invites the viewer to Kivinokka historical folkpark in Vanhankaupunginlahti, Helsinki. The pulse of the percussive music, the dance and singing return the viewer to the perpetual movement and cycle of the sea. Human beings are seen as fragile and transient but also destructive in relation to this ancient element.

Dancer Kardo Shiwan, musician Amanda Blomqvist and audience guide Saima Saari accompany the audience to encounter the force of the Baltic Sea as well as the trace left by humans. Visualisation by Mirkka Nyrhinen draws from Finnish mythology and trash forgotten on the beach. The newest work by the awarded choreographer Ninni Perko offers an all-encompassing opportunity to remember, reconcile and receive solace.

NB. It is not allowed to film or photograph the performance without permission.
